FROM OUR PASTOR

February 5

When asked by Bishop Choby to consider moving from Immaculate Conception in Clarksville to the Cathedral, I politely expressed that I'd rather stay at Immaculate Conception. I had only been at I.C. for six years, and I had several projects I wanted to see to completion before I left.

When I arrived at Immaculate Conception, the parish was in terrible financial condition. This was for a lot of reasons. Father Eric Fowlkes, whom I followed, had been a great and much loved pastor, but he had been moved almost a year before my arrival, so it was not his fault. A year without a pastor had taken its toll. The 101st Airborne had deployed, which negatively affected the parish, the parish owed a huge amount of money, it had bought and started a school, and because of the deployment, a lot of military families had left Clarksville.

Getting the parish on solid financial footing was challenging, but within three years we had retired one of two loans, were making progress on the second, had increased attendance, collections were steadily going up, and the number of ministries were increasing. Immaculate Conception School is three and a half miles from the church, and I knew that to really make a go of it, we had to move the school to the church property. Although the school had only 150 students, Religious Education had close to 600, and we did not have nearly enough space, so I had begun the process of building an education building. What I really wanted to see finished was an education building, but it was not to be.

One of the things I expressed to Father Kibby when we began meeting about the transition of pastors is that I was happy about coming to a parish without financial problems. Fr. Kibby laughed heartily knowing that finances at Cathedral were worsening and that the debt was about to become a millstone.

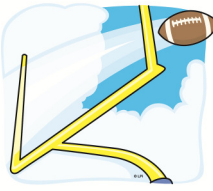

What worked for me before is working again. It has been slow, but expanding ministries, increasing attendance, and doing other things are a slow way to fix a financial situation but is a way of repairing finances so history doesn't repeat. The first part is working; our operations are almost in the black. Now, therefore, we must tackle our debt of about $3.1 million. I'm thrilled that we are now in a position to start chipping away at the millstone. My goal for us is ambitious: to have retired the debt by the 100th anniversary of the Cathedral church in July of 2014. In the coming weeks, as the plan comes together, we will be announcing our strategy. Be ambitious with me! Let's knock out this debt and really do what we are capable of doing for God!

- Rev. Edward F. Steiner

ADULT EDUCATION & FORMATION

SUNDAY MORNING ADULT FORMATION

9:45 – 10:45 a.m. in St. Albert Hall, Room 303

NEW SERIES

American cultures wars notwithstanding, science and religion coexist quite well within the Catholic Church. Speaking before the Pontifical Academy of Sciences, Pope Benedict XVI has said “Christianity does not posit an inevitable conflict between supernatural faith and scientific progress,” (2010) and science can be “a place of dialogue, a meeting between man and nature, and potentially, even between man and his Creator.” (2006)

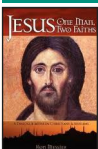

Please join us on the Sundays of February as we examine the roles of science and medicine and hear how faithful Catholics pursue their scientific vocations. This four week series will provide a basic orientation to current scientific and religious perspectives in preparation for a special public lecture on Wednesday, Feb. 29, presented by Maureen Condic, PhD, on Stem Cell Research and Ethics.

THIS SUNDAY: “What is Science?” is presented by Bob Scherrer, parishioner of Assumption Church in Nashville and Chairperson of the Department of Physics and Astronomy, Vanderbilt University. Dr. Scherrer writes, “I will examine the nature of science, how it works, and what it does. What are the assumptions or ‘axioms’ of science? How are scientific theories constructed? What areas are inside and which are outside the domain of science? Why is science so successful inside its domain of activity? Can science say anything about morality? Does it have anything to say about the existence of God?”

FEBRUARY 12: “Becoming a Physician - Entering into the Mystery of Medicine,” a personal reflection presented by Cathedral parishioner Denis O’Day, M.D. Dr. O’Day writes that his reflection “will deal with the interface between science and faith, secular vs. sacred, and Medicine as a vocation.” Dr. O’Day is Director of the Emphasis Program and Professor of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

FEBRUARY 19: “Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship. The Stem Cell Debate: Fact and Fiction,” presented by parishioner Joey Barnett, PhD. Dr. Barnett is Vice-chair, Pharmacology and Professor of Pharmacology, Medicine, Pediatrics, and Pathology, Microbiology & Immunology at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. Dr. Barnett will present the science and vocabulary behind stem cell research efforts with the goal of providing the tools needed by nonscientists to understand and participate in the debate about this important issue.

CATHEDRAL BOOK CLUB

The next meeting of the Book Club is Wednesday, March 7 at 7 p.m. We will discuss Jesus - One Man, Two Faiths: A Dialogue Between Christians and Muslims by Dr. Ron Messier. Dr. Messier will attend the Book Club session and lead the discussion!
